

Heroic Cairn

Cairn is an adventure game for one facilitator (the Warden) and at least one other player. Players act as hardened adventurers exploring a dark & mysterious Wood filled with strange folk, hidden treasure, and unspeakable monstrosities.

Heroic Cairn consolidates and updates Cairn rules for ancestries, classes, combat and spell modifiers, and includes additional spells. Heroic Cairn is licensed CC-BY-SA 4.0 by Senator Bix.

Part I: Character Creation

1) Ancestry

Choose an ancestry for your character.

Dwellers of the Underground

- Darkvision: Perfect vision in low-light, somewhat blinded by bright lights.
- Earthhardy: You are tougher than sun-dwellers, often recovering from injuries or poison thought to be lethal.

Fair Folk

- Magic-Sense: You can tell when arcane energies are at work.
- Third Eye: You cannot be fooled by magical illusions, save those created by one of your own.

Smallfolk

- Easily Missed: Enemies tend to ignore you, going for the bigger targets first or ignoring you altogether.
- Quicksilver: Escaping sudden capture or a killing blow is like second nature to you. Sneaking comes naturally, too.

Greenskin

- Blood Brothers: If any fellow adventurers go first in battle, then you also go first.
- Battle Fury: Once per day you may perform an Enhanced blast attack.

Humankind

- Eclectic: Humans are many and varied. Select an additional background.
- Aggressive Opportunist: Once per day, you can re-roll a damage roll.

Or make your own Ancestry:

Choose any two features from the above. For example, a goblin character might choose to have Quicksilver and Blood Brothers. Or, a gnome might have Easily Missed and Magic-Sense.

2) Classes

Choose a class for your character.

Warrior Classes

You are the Fighter, the Mercenary, the Barbarian, the Gladiator, The Knight. You are the master of the arts of combat and warfare.

Fighter: Fighters can come from many backgrounds, but for all, their familiarity with combat helps you seize opportunity on the battlefield. You score critical hits on a 16 through 20.

Mercenary: You have a contact you can turn to in almost every city. They aren't always happy to see you, though. Men blindly follow you in battle (they always pass morale saves). If you are attacking a target with others, you grant a +2 instead of a +1 to the damage.

Barbarian: Your place is in the wilderness, you despise civilization and fear magic. You drink blood like ale, regain 1d3 HP when you kill or CD an enemy. Your battle rage is so strong that you can harm creatures immune to mundane damage.

Gladiator: Your favored weapon is an extension of yourself, and deals the next highest damage dice. For example, if it was a dagger it would do d8. You are a trained merciless killer. Your reputation is not always serving you and your former master is probably looking for you.

Knight: Your rank gives you credibility with the nobles. The peasantry will generally follow you into dangerous situations without the slightest hesitation. However if you fail them somehow, they may strip you of your rank. You are also a skilled horseman, your mounted attacks are enhanced.

Character creation:

- Start with 1d4+2 HP.
- Swirl: Do a Blast attack and gain 1 Fatigue.

- Death Storm: when you kill or CD an enemy you can attack again.

Starting Gear:

- Roll 1d10+10 on the Armor Table.
- Roll 1d10+10 on the Helmets and Shields Table.
- Roll for Weapons and choose a second one.
- Roll the rest as usual.

Divine Classes

You are the Cleric, the Druid, the Paladin. You are a faithful servant of your deity. Battle ready to channel the power of your cult.

Cleric: You always find help and resources in the temple of your deity but stay in line with the dogma of your religion or be disfavored. You can invoke the divine power, brandishing your holy symbol, to repel undead (creatures Save WIL to resist). Clerics know 2 Cantrip spells.

Druid: You belong to the wild lands and feel uncomfortable in cities. You worship the elements and the old bestial deities. You can communicate with animals and always find resources in the wilderness. You have two options: 1) Spellweaver Druids, that can shape-shift into one type of animal and know 2 Cantrip spells.

Or 2) Wildform Druids, that can shape-shift into any animal, but cannot use Cantrips. For all Druids, shape-shifting costs 1 Fatigue. Taking critical damage causes a Druid to revert back to their human form.

Paladin: As a sacred warrior of your faith you will be obeyed by zealots. Priests will favor you but if you step out of the line you will fall in disgrace. You dedicate your life to the cult and sworn vow of humility (you should not hoard treasures). Once per day you can Lay on Hands on someone to cure disease, poison or heal 1d6 STR. Paladins do not know any Cantrips.

Character creation:

- Salvation Grace: Once per day you heal 1D6 to any abilities but you became Deprived until you take the time to mediate, pray or sleep.
- Miracles: Every day, you can choose 3 Cleric spells related to your religion to cast without Spellbooks while holding your holy symbol.

Starting Gear:

- You start with a holy symbol from your deity.
- Roll 1d12+8 on the Armor Table.
- Roll 1d12+8 on the Helmets and Shields Table.
- Roll the rest as usual.

Magic-User Classes

You are the Wizard, the Necromancer, the Elementalist, the Enchanter. You are the scholar of the arcane, you handle spells and magic like no one else.

Wizard: You have spent time in magic school and libraries, Your knowledge is broad and you often know something about old and forgotten things. You have a small magic creature as Familiar. You can communicate with it telepathically as long as you can see it. If it dies it can be re-summoned during an 8 hours ritual, you end up Deprived. Your Grimlore starts with an additional spell.

Necromancer: You manipulate the forces of life and death and have a sick attraction for undead creatures. You will be despised, banished, or imprisoned in most settlements. You can speak with recently deceased corpses, they will talk to you like a friend. Get 1 Fatigue at the end of the conversation.

Elementalist: You summon the forces of the four elements: Water, Earth, Fire and Air. You choose one element: You always have 3 Armor against it and you can perform an elemental attack that does Enhanced damage at the cost of 1 Fatigue.

Bard: You have sharpened your magic ability to charm and confuse. You can hypnotize an intelligent creature with an artistic performance. The creature is dazed and confused until a WIL Save is passed. Your Grimlore also contains knowledge of the arcane and history.

Character creation:

- Grimoire (Bulky). This is the fruit of your research and your most precious belongings (only you can decipher it). You can spend four hours to copy a standard Spellbook into your Grimoire followed by a successful WIL Save. During this process the original Spellbook is destroyed. Scrolls cannot be copied.
- All Magic-Users know 2 Cantrip spells.
- You are not comfortable wearing bulky armor. Spell casting wearing one will cost 2 Fatigue.

Starting Gear:

- You start with your Grimoire with two random spells inscribed.
- Roll 1d6 on the Armor Table.
- Don't roll on the Helmets and Shields Table.
- Roll the rest as usual.

Rogue Classes

You are the Thief, the Assassin, the Ranger, the Tomb Robber. You are the master of stealth, acrobatics and deception.

Thief: The larcenous arts are your way of living, you have contacts with the mob in most cities, You always hear the best rumors and nice job proposals. You get cheap equipment from selected shops. Nevertheless, Your reputation will not help you with the authorities and you probably "wanted" somewhere. You know how to cut a purse and you have learned the mysteries of lock-picking. As accomplished burglars you can attempt to climb unthinkable sheer surfaces.

Assassin: You have learned many ways of killing, you are a deadly shadow. You still owe your mentors, probably a guild, and beware of the day they will hold you accountable. With the right ingredients you can brew all kinds of poison. With some observations and study you can create disguises that will fool detailed scrutiny.

Ranger: You are a protector of nature, you are a wilderness survival expert and you know how to travel fast and unnoticed. Always aware, you are rarely surprised. You have a semi intelligent faithful pet of your choice. You have a deep connection with him/her and you will always protect each other. Your pet will always find you back but if it dies you will need to raise a cub.

Tomb Robber: You are stealing things from the dead, they don't need it after all. You are a specialist of underground exploration and ancient structures. You feel at home in dark and damp places. You have developed skills for disabling traps, only the most advanced one should catch you. You can smell Undead creatures when they are close.

Character creation:

- Backstab: when you attack an unaware opponent from behind you do STR damage.
- Read languages: you can read approximately any text.
- Swiftiness: Once per round, a Thief may take an extra action at the cost of 1 Fatigue.

Starting Gear:

- You start with an Expeditionary Gear and a Tool of your choice.
- Choose a Weapon.
- Roll the rest as usual.

Knave

Knaves have no special abilities. Roll d20 for all gear.

Or make your own classes:

You can re-theme once class to make another. For example, if you want to be a Ranger that doesn't use an animal companion, simply use the mechanics of a fighter. Or a Monk could be a Magic-User with a powerful artifact instead of a grimloire. Or they could be a powerful combatant based on a Barbarian. A swordsman with an ancient powerful blade could use the mechanics of a Gladiator.

3) Name, Background & Traits

First, choose or roll a name for your character from the Name & Background tables, then their background, which informs their knowledge and potential skills.

Next, roll for (or select) the rest of your character's traits on the Character Traits tables.

2. Addicted
3. Blackmailed
4. Condemned
5. Cursed
6. Defrauded
7. Demoted
8. Discredited
9. Disowned
10. Exiled

4) Ability Scores

Player Characters (PCs) have just three attributes:

Strength (STR), Dexterity (DEX), and Willpower (WIL). When creating a PC, the player should roll 3d6 for each of their character's ability scores, in order. They may then swap any two of the results.

Example: Ines rolls for her character's STR, resulting in a 2, a 4, and a 6, totaling 12. The next two ability rolls result in a 9 for DEX and a 13 for WIL. She decides to swap the 12 and the 9, for a character with 9 STR, 12 DEX and 13 WIL.

Hit Protection

Roll 1d6 to determine your PC's starting Hit Protection (HP), which reflects their ability to avoid damage in combat. HP does not indicate a character's health or fortitude; nor do they lose it for very long (see Healing).

5) Inventory

Characters have a total of 10 inventory slots: a backpack with six slots, one slot for each hand, and two slots for their upper body (such as the belt, chest, or head). The backpack can also double as an emergency sleeping bag but only if emptied of its contents.

Most items take up one slot, and small items can be bundled together. Slots are abstract and can be rearranged per the Warden's discretion.

Bulky items take up two slots and are typically two-handed or awkward to carry. Anyone carrying a full inventory (e.g. filling all 10 slots) is reduced to 0 HP.

A PC cannot carry more items than their inventory allows. Carts (which must be pulled with both hands), horses, or mules can increase inventory.

Hirelings can also be paid to carry equipment.

Starting Gear

All PCs begin with:

- Three days' rations (one slot)
- A torch (one slot)
- 3d6 gold pieces

Roll on the Starting Gear tables to determine your PC's armor, weapons, tools, and equipment. If indicated, roll on the Spellbooks table with a d100 (or roll 2d10, using one die as the ones place, and one as the tens place).

See the Equipment List for related armor, damage, and slot values. Smaller items can sometimes be bundled together into one slot.

If you would like something closer to traditional classes, refer to the list of Optional Gear Packages.

Part III: Rules

Each of the three abilities are used in different circumstances (see saves, below).

Strength (STR): Used for saves requiring physical power, like lifting gates, bending bars, resisting poison, etc.

Dexterity (DEX): Used for saves requiring poise, speed, and reflexes like dodging, climbing, sneaking, balancing, etc.

Willpower (WIL): Used for saves to persuade, deceive, interrogate, intimidate, charm, provoke, manipulate spells, etc.

Saves

A save is a roll to avoid bad outcomes from risky choices and circumstances. PCs roll a d20 for an appropriate ability score. If they roll equal to or under that ability score, they pass. Otherwise, they fail. A 1 is always a success, and a 20 is always a failure.

If it is unclear which character should save in a situation, whomever is in more danger should make the save.

Example: Bea encounters a group of heavily-armed Goblins standing guard before a tunnel entrance. Her player carefully plots a course, recognizing that her 13 DEX makes sneaking past the guards the best option. She rolls a d20, and resulting in a 10 - a success!

Advantage and Disadvantage

A Warden has the option of modifying the difficulty of saves using advantage (where a character rolls two d20 and uses the higher roll) or disadvantage (where a character rolls two d20 and uses the lower roll).

Deprivation & Fatigue

A PC deprived of a crucial need (such as food or rest) is unable to recover HP or ability scores. Anyone deprived for more than a day adds Fatigue to their inventory, one for each day. Each Fatigue occupies one slot and lasts until they are able to recuperate (such as a full night's rest in a safe spot).

PCs can also gain Fatigue by casting spells or through events in the fiction.

Resting for a few moments and having a drink of water restores lost HP but leaves the party exposed. Ability loss can usually be restored with a week's rest facilitated by a healer or other appropriate source of expertise. Some of these services may be free, while more expedient or magical means of recovery may come at a cost.

One level of ability loss can be restored if a player passes a corresponding save after a rest.

Armor

Before calculating damage to HP, subtract the target's Armor value from the result of damage rolls. Shields and similar armor provides a bonus defense (e.g. +1 Armor), but only while the item is held or worn.

No one can have more than 3 Armor.

Shields, gauntlets, and helms may provide additional benefits according to their use.

Reactions

When the PCs encounter an NPC whose reaction to the party is not obvious, the Warden may roll 2d6 and consult the following table:

- 2: Hostile
- 3-5: Wry
- 6-8: Curious
- 9-11: Kind
- 12: Helpful

Morale

Enemies must pass a WIL save to avoid fleeing when they take their first casualty and again when they lose half their number. Some groups may use their leader's WIL in place of their own. Lone foes must save when they're reduced to 0 HP. Morale does not affect PCs.

Wealth & Treasure

The most common coin is the gold piece (gp), which is equal to 10 silver pieces (sp) and 100 copper pieces (cp).

Treasure is highly valuable, usually bulky, and rarely useful beyond its value. It can be a lure, taking PCs to exotic and even dangerous locations, and is often under the protection of intimidating foes.

Villages, strongholds, and ports of call barter and trade based on the local rarity and value of an item or commodity.

Part IV: Magic

Spellbooks contain a single spell and take up one slot. They cannot be transcribed or created; instead they are recovered from places like tombs, dungeons, and manors.

Spellbooks sometimes display unusual properties or limitations, such as producing a foul or unearthly smell when opened, possessing an innate intelligence, or being legible only when held in moonlight.

Spellbooks will attract the attention of those who seek the arcane power within, and it is considered dangerous to display them openly.

Scrolls are similar to Spellbooks, however:

- They do not take up an inventory slot.
- They do not cause fatigue.
- They disappear after one use.

Casting Spells

Anyone can cast a spell by holding a Spellbook in both hands and reading its contents aloud. They must then add a Fatigue to inventory, occupying one slot. Given time and safety, PCs can enhance a spell (e.g., affecting multiple targets, increasing its power, etc.) without any additional cost. If the PC is deprived or in danger, the Warden may require a PC to make a WIL save to avoid any ill-effects from casting the spell. Consequences of failure are on par with the intended effect, and may result in added Fatigue, the destruction of the Spellbook, injury, and even death.

Relics

Relics are items imbued with a magical spell or power. They do not cause Fatigue. Relics usually have a limited use, as well as a recharge condition. A few examples:

Honeyclasp, 3 charges. A rusted ring that shrinks the bearer to 6" tall. Recharge: place in a thimble-sized cup of royal jelly.

Falconer's Friend, 1 charge. A bolt-shaped wand carrying the Haste spell. Recharge: fire from a crossbow and recover.

Staff of Silence, 1 charge. This blackened rod temporarily disables all magic within 50ft. Recharge: bathe in the light of a full moon.

Leycap, 1 use. Anyone ingesting this green-flecked mushroom loses a Fatigue, but is then required to make a WIL save to avoid its addictive properties. A fail leaves the PC deprived and unable to focus until they can eat another leycap, providing only a brief reprieve from the addiction.

Infinite Satchel A bag known for holding things without regard to size, or weight, as long as it can fit through the opening of the satchel. No matter what the Satchel is holding, it's weight never increases. However, items can not be retrieved from unless the Satchel has not been moved for 8 hours.

Part V: Combat

Rounds

The game typically plays without strict time accounting. In a fight or circumstance where timing is helpful, use rounds to keep track of when something occurs. A round is roughly ten seconds of in-game time and is comprised of turns.

Actions

On their turn, a character may move up to 40ft and take up to one action. This may be casting a spell, attacking, making a second move, or some other reasonable action.

Each round, the PCs declare what they are doing before dice are rolled. If a character attempts something risky, the Warden calls for a save for appropriate players or NPCs. All actions, attacks, and movements take place simultaneously.

Turns

The Warden will telegraph the most likely actions taken by NPCs or monsters. For the first round of combat, each PC must make a DEX save to act. Then the opponents will act. Then all players (including players that made their save to act first) will act. For the remainder of combat, all players and then all opponents will take their turns until the combat ends.

Example: Bea has accidentally stumbled onto the stomping grounds of a massive Wood Troll. In order to make a move before the Troll, she makes a DEX save. She fails, and the Troll gets to attack first.

Attacking & Damage

The attacker rolls their weapon die and subtracts the target's armor, then deals the remaining total to their opponent's HP. Unarmed attacks always do 1d4 damage.

Example: The Wood Troll roars, swinging its club at Bea, who has 5 HP. The club does 1d10 damage and the Warden rolls a 4. They subtract 1 to account for Bea's leather armor, leaving Bea with 2 HP remaining.

Multiple Attackers

If multiple attackers target the same foe, roll all damage dice and keep the single highest result, and add +1 to the damage for every attacker to a target after the first.

Attack Modifiers

If fighting from a position of weakness (such as through cover or with bound hands), the attack is impaired and the attacker must roll 1d4 damage regardless of the attack's damage die.

If fighting from a position of advantage (such as against a helpless foe or through a daring maneuver), the attack is enhanced, allowing the attacker to roll 1d12 damage instead of their normal die.

Dual Weapons

If attacking with two weapons at the same time, roll both damage dice and keep the single highest result.

Blast

Attacks with the blast quality affect all targets in the noted area, rolling separately for each affected character. Blast refers to anything from explosions to huge cleaving onslaughts to the impact of a meteorite. If unsure how many targets can be affected, roll the related damage die for a result.

Critical Hits

It's fun to get critical hits. Even though every attack hits, it's still fun to have a chance to crit. When you attack, roll a d20. On a 20, which allows you to take an extra action, make an extra attack, or have your attack Enhanced.

In general, for saves you want to roll low, and for attacks and damage you want to roll high.

Note that a critical hit does not necessarily cause critical damage.

Critical Damage

Damage that reduces a target's HP below zero decreases a target's STR by the amount remaining. They must then make a STR save to avoid critical damage. Additionally, some enemies will have special abilities or effects that are triggered when their target fails a critical damage save.

Any PC that suffers critical damage cannot do anything but crawl weakly, grasping for life. If given aid and rest, they will stabilize. If left untreated, they die within the hour.

Ability Score Loss

If a PC's STR is reduced to 0, they die. If their DEX is reduced to 0, they are paralyzed. If their WIL is reduced to 0, they are delirious.

Complete DEX and WIL loss renders the character unable to act until they are restored through extended rest or by extraordinary means.

Unconsciousness & Death

When a character dies, the player is free to create a new character or take control of a hireling. They immediately join the party in order to reduce downtime.

Detachments

Large groups of similar combatants fighting together are treated as a single detachment. When a detachment takes critical damage, it is routed or significantly weakened. When it reaches 0 STR, it is destroyed.

Attacks against detachments by individuals are impaired (excluding blast damage). Attacks against individuals by detachments are enhanced and deal blast damage.

Retreat

Running away from a dire situation always requires a successful DEX save, as well as a safe destination to run to.

Perseverance

For every level, players gain a point of Perseverance, which can be used to remove one Fatigue. Perseverance is restored when a player rests to regain their fatigue.

Advanced Combat Options

Weapon Traits

Below are some optional traits a magical or good quality weapon might have. Sweep, parry, and reach are traits any weapon of that type can have. Any of the other traits should be limited to 1 per rare, special, or magic weapon.

Common Traits:

- Sweep: (2 handed weapons only) Make a second attack against an enemy within reach if you roll for maximum damage or your attack reduces the targets HP to zero or lower.
- Parry: (swords and daggers only) Melee damage of 1-2 is harmlessly parried away.
- Reach: (polearms only) When attacked with a melee weapon without reach, the attacker must roll half or higher on their damage roll or else you get to attack them first.

Rare Traits:

- Enchanted: (magic weapons) Damage ignores armor.
- Brutal: (magic bludgeoning weapons; 2h only) Critical Damage resulting from a Damage roll of 8 or more from this weapon is an instant kill, and forces a morale Save on the enemy.
- Deadly: (magic weapons; rare) Re-roll on max damage and add to total.
- Vorpai: (magic blades; rare) Damage immediately bypasses HP, going straight to STR and requiring a save against Critical Damage

- Blood-Thirsty: (cursed magic weapons; rare) On max damage, upgrade dice type. 6>8>10. 10 on a d10 will reset the weapon to its base dice and the weapon will need 2d6 hours to recharge. Should have some type of curse or drawback.

Shield Trait:

- Shield Splintering: Players can opt to absorb all damage and effects from an attack in exchange for their shield breaking.

Magic Damage Types

Below are some magic weapon damage types other than +1 damage. Magic damage type on a weapon should lower it's damage by 1 dice size to account for the extra effect.

- Cold: On a hit, target makes a STR save or next attack is impaired.
- Thunder: On a hit, target makes a DEX save or can't move next turn.
- Necrotic: On a hit, target makes a WIL save or loses next turn.
- Poison: On a hit, target makes a STR save or 1d4 damage for 1d4 rounds.
- Disintegration: On a hit, target makes a DEX save vs instant obliteration and the wielder takes 1 fatigue. Exceptionally powerful and rare.

Special Materials

Most weapons will be made from steel. Some special weapons, however, could potentially come from different materials. Consider making a weapon of a special material one dice size less to compensate for its advantages.

- Cold-Iron: Heavy and prone to breaking. Enhanced vs. fey.
- Silver: Expensive. Enhanced vs. undead and certain monsters.
- Mithril: Elven alloy. Silvery-gold. Enhanced vs. goblins.
- Orichalcum: Dwarven alloy. Deep red-bronze. Enhanced vs. undead.
- Electrum: Magically forged alloy. Green-gold. Enhanced vs. demons.
- Meteor Ore: Rare star metal. Multi-hued. Enhanced vs. dragons.

Scars

When a critical hit against a PC does critical damage they are uniquely impacted. Look up the result on the table below based the roll of a d12:

1. Lasting Scar: Roll 1d6 (1: Neck, 2: Hands, 3: Eye, 4: Chest, 5: Legs, 6: Ear). Roll 1d6. If the total is higher than your max HP, take the new result.
2. Rattling Blow: You're disoriented and shaken. Describe how you refocus. Roll 1d6. If the total is higher than your max HP, take the new result.
3. Walloped: You're sent flying and land flat on your face, winded. You are deprived until you rest for a few hours. Then, roll 1d6. Add that amount to your max HP.
4. Broken Limb: Roll 1d6 (1-2: Leg, 3-4: Arm, 5: Rib, 6: Skull). Once mended, roll 2d6. If the total is higher than your max HP, take the new result.
5. Diseased: You're afflicted with a gross, uncomfortable infection. When you get over it, roll 2d6. If the total is higher than your max HP, take the new result.
6. Reorienting Head Wound: Roll 1d6 (1-2: STR, 3-4: DEX, 5-6: WIL). Roll 3d6. If the total is higher than your current ability score, take the new result.
7. Hamstrung: You can barely move until you get serious help and rest. After recovery, roll 3d6. If the total is higher than your max DEX, take the new result.
8. Deafened: You cannot hear anything until you find extraordinary aid. Regardless, make a WIL save. If you pass, increase your max WIL by 1d4.
9. Re-brained: Some hidden part of your psyche is knocked loose. Roll 3d6. If the total is higher than your max WIL, take the new result.
10. Sundered: An appendage is torn off, crippled or useless. The Warden will tell you which. Then, make a WIL save. If you pass, increase your max WIL by 1d6.
11. Mortal Wound: You are deprived and out of action. You die in one hour unless healed. Upon recovery, roll 2d6. Take the new result as your max HP.
12. Doomed: Death seemed ever so close, but somehow you survived. If your next save against critical damage is a fail, you die horribly. If you pass, roll 3d6. If the total is higher than your max HP, take the new result.

Part VI: Leveling Up

Experience Points (XP)

Gain a new level every 1,000 XP. Optionally increase the XP needed each level. A good place to start is adding between 500-1,000 XP each level.

Gaining XP

Experience points are gained at a rate of 1 XP for every 1 gold retrieved and returned to the safety of a town or your base of operations.

Optionally, characters can level up after playing a certain number of adventures at their current level. The number of adventures is often some multiple of their current level.

Increasing HP and Ability Scores each time you level up:

- Roll 1d3 and add to your HP total.
- Re-roll each Ability Score with 3d6. If a result is higher than your current score, increase that Ability Score by 1.
- Players gain a point of Perseverance.

Part VII: Spells

There are four selections of spells Common Spells, Additional Spells, Cleric Spells, and Cantrips. However, any of these spells can be cast by any character, as long as they have the proper spellbook or scroll.

Random Spell Sets (d20):

Regular wolves are scared of them, but will fight alongside them against invaders. Can be trained like dogs if captured young, but it's a extremely difficult challenging.

Wolf: 6 HP, 12 STR, 14 DEX, bite (d8). Large canines that dwell primarily in wildlands, but occasionally lair in caves. Can be trained like dogs if captured young. When found in packs of at least 4, wolfs never fail morale saves.

Wood Troll: 10 HP, 15 STR, 12 DEX, 7 WIL, claws and bite (d8+d8, Blast). Large humanoid beings with elongated arms. Live in forests, sharing a deep connection with the vegetation around it. As an action the troll can eat a handful of moss to fully recover its HP. Critical Damage: Moss and twigs begin growing out of target's wounds.

Wyvern: 7 HP, 14 DEX, bite (d8+d8) or poisonous sting (d6). Winged, two-legged, reptilian monsters with a long tail tipped with a venomous sting. Dwell in any terrain, but favor dry cliffs. Shy away from other creatures, but attacks anything that comes in the vicinity of its nest. Critical Damage: The deadly poison permanently debilitates the target, reducing its maximum STR to the current value.

Zombie: 6 HP, 6 DEX, 3 WIL, rusted weapon (d6). Slow, mindless re-animated corpses. Created by wicked wizards to serve as guardians in hordes. Simply attacks anything that comes nearby. Cannot be affected by anything that targets the mind.

Creating Monsters

Use the following template to model Monsters or NPCs:

Name:

X HP, X Armor, X STR, X DEX, X WIL, Weapon (dX, special items, qualities)

- Engaging descriptor of appearance or demeanor

- Quirk, tactic, or peculiarity making this NPC unique
- Special effect or critical damage consequence

General Principles

Ability Scores:

- 3 is deficient
- 6 is weak
- 10 is average
- 14 is noteworthy
- 18 is legendary.

HP:

- Average creatures: 3 HP
- Hardy creatures: 6 HP
- Serious threats: 10+ HP

Use flavor and style to help them stand out. Players will remember a pig-faced humanoid looking for his missing sheep more easily than a generic goblin archer.

Use critical hits and damage to lean into the threat or strangeness of any aggressive NPC.

Remember that HP is Hit Protection, not Hit Points. It's a measure of resilience, luck, and gumption - not health.

Converting from OSR

- Give 1 HP per HD for most creatures.
- Most humanoids have at least 4HP.
- Morale can also be used as a baseline.
- Damage die are roughly the same, though armed attacks do at least 1d6 damage.

Some pointers:

- Is it good at avoiding a hit? Give it HP.
- Does it soak up damage? Give it Armor.
- Is it strong? Give it a high STR.
- Is it nimble? Give it high DEX.
- Is it charismatic? Give it high WIL.

Converting from 5e

- For STR, choose the highest between STR or CON.
- Convert DEX directly.
- For WIL choose the highest between WIS or CHA.

Now to get the value, add 10 to the equivalent 5e modifier. So, a monster that has 19 (+4) STR on 5e, will have 14 STR on Cairn. One that has 6 (-2) Wisdom in 5e will have 8 WIL on Cairn.

AC to Armor:

- 12 AC or less = no armor
- 13+ AC = 1 Armor
- 16+ AC = 2 Armor
- 20+ AC = 3 Armor

For HP:

You can use CR as a starting point; but consider the "levels of threat."

- 1-6 HP are most humans, small animals and creatures of similar power.
- 7-12 HP are serious foes, people that are exceptionally trained or creatures of uncommon power. Large and ferocious animals, most monstrosities and extraplanar creatures fall here.

- 13-18 HP are large threats. Dragons, Giants, that sort of enemy that can cause massive destruction.

Attacks/damage are mostly as is, in the case of weapons, use the damage the weapon deals in Cairn rules. If a attack has a lot of damage dice, give it advantage (e.g. d8+d8) in Cairn. Use damage advantage in place of multiattacks too.

Part VIII: Game Philosophy

Neutrality: The Warden's role is to portray the rules, situations, NPCs, and narrative clearly, while acting as a neutral arbiter.

Death: Characters may be powerful, but they are also vulnerable to harm in its many forms. Death is always around the corner, but it is never random or without warning.

Fiction First: Dice do not always reflect an obstacle's difficulty or its outcome. Instead, success and failure are arbitrated by the Warden in dialogue with the players, based on in-world elements.

Growth: Characters are changed through in-world advancement, gaining new skills and abilities by surviving dangerous events and overcoming obstacles.

Player Choice: Players should always understand the reasons behind the choices they've made, and information about potential risks should be provided freely and frequently.

Principles: The Warden and the players each have guidelines that help foster a specific play experience defined by critical thinking, exploration, and an emergent narrative.

Shared Objectives: Players trust one another to engage with the shared setting, character goals, and party challenges. Therefore, the party is typically working together towards a common goal, as a team.

Principles for Wardens

Information

- Provide useful information about the game world as the characters explore it.
- Players do not need to roll dice to learn about their circumstances.
- Be helpful and direct with your answers to their questions.
- Respond honestly, describe consistently, and always let them know they can keep asking questions.

Difficulty

- Default to context and realism rather than numbers and mechanics.
- If something the players want to do is sincerely impossible, no roll will allow them to do it.
- Is what the player describes and how they leverage the situation sensible? Let it happen.
- Saves cover a great deal of uncertain situations and are often all that is necessary for risky actions.

Preparation

- The game world is organic, malleable and random. It intuitively and makes sharp turns.
- Use random tables and generators to develop situations, not stories or plots.
- NPCs remember what the PCs say and do, and how they affect the world.
- NPCs don't want to die. Infuse their own self-interest and will to live into every personality.

Narrative Focus

- Emergent experience of play is what matters, not math or character abilities. Give the players weapon trainers and personal quests to facilitate improvement and specialization.
- Pay attention to the needs and wants of the players, then put realistic opportunities in their path.
- A dagger to your throat will kill you, regardless of your expensive armor and impressive training.

Danger

- The game world produces real risk of pain and death for the player characters.
- Telegraph serious danger to players when it is present. The more dangerous, the more obvious.
- Put traps in plain sight and let the players take time to figure out a solution.
- Give players opportunities to solve problems and interact with the world.

Treasure

- A Treasure is specific to the environment from where it is recovered. It tells a story.
- Treasure is highly valuable, almost always bulky, and rarely useful beyond its worth and prestige.
- Relics are not Treasure, though they are useful and interesting.
- Use Treasure as a lure to exotic locations under the protection of intimidating foes.

Choice

- Give players a solid choice to force outcomes when the situation lulls.
- Use binary "so, A or B?" responses when their intentions are vague.
- Work together with this conversational progress to keep the game moving.
- Ensure that the player character's actions leave their mark on the game world.

Die of Fate

- Occasionally you will want an element of randomness (e.g. the weather, unique character knowledge, etc.).

- In these situations, roll 1d6. A roll of 4 or more generally favors the players.
- A roll of 3 or under tends to mean bad luck for the PCs or their allies.

Principles for Players

Agency

- Attributes and related saves do not define your character. They are tools.
- Don't ask only what your character would do, ask what you would do, too.
- Be creative with your intuition, items, and connections.

Teamwork

- Seek consensus from the other players before barreling forward.
- Stay on the same page about goals and limits, respecting each other and accomplishing more as a group than alone.

Exploration

- Asking questions and listening to detail is more useful than any stats, items, or skills you have.
- Take the Warden's description without suspicion, but don't shy away from seeking more information.
- There is no single correct way forward.

Talking

- Treat NPCs as if they were real people, and rely on your curiosity to safely gain information and solve problems.
- You'll find that most people are interesting and will want to talk things through before getting violent.

Caution

- Fighting is a choice and rarely a wise one; consider whether violence is the best way to achieve your goals.
- Try to stack the odds in your favor and retreat when things seem unfavorable.

Planning

- Think of ways to avoid your obstacles through reconnaissance, subtlety, and fact-finding.
- Do some research and ask around about your objectives.

Ambition

- Set goals and use your meager means to take steps forward.
- Expect nothing. Earn your reputation.
- Keep things moving forward and play to see what happens.

The Hazard System

Hazard System (v0.3)

The six-sided hazard die deploys threats, manages resources such as light, and keeps time. It is the engine that drives gameplay forward, ensuring that choices have consequences while minimizing bookkeeping. To take a turn, have a player roll the hazard die and have the referee interpret the results relative to the current turn type. During a turn, each player may take one full action. The general form of the hazard die is:

1. Setback
2. Fatigue
3. Expiration
4. Locality
5. Percept
6. Advantage

Hazard Die Interpretations

d6. Result: Interpretation

Haven Turn Interpretation

1. Setback: Encounter (use regional table) or disaster (see below)

2. Fatigue: Shortage (1 medicine, 2-3 drought, 4-5 famine, 6 trust)
3. Expiration: Clear one or more haven conditions
4. Locality: Advance season (or other local change)
5. Percept: Foreshadow looming disaster
6. Advantage: Full recovery

Wilderness Turn Interpretation

1. Setback: Encounter (use regional table) or road/bridge out
2. Fatigue: Rest and consume rations (1/person) or suffer minor harm (1 HP)
3. Expiration: Expire transient wilderness condition
4. Locality: Shift weather (or other local change)
5. Percept: Spoor or clue regarding next encounter
6. Advantage: Free wilderness turn

Dungeon Turn Interpretation

1. Setback: Encounter (use zone table)
2. Fatigue: Rest and consume rations (1/party) or suffer minor harm (1 HP)
3. Expiration: Expire transient dungeon conditions (light, spell, etc)
4. Locality: Shift dungeon state (or other local change)
5. Percept: Spoor or clue regarding next encounter
6. Advantage: Free dungeon turn

Combat Turn Interpretation

1. Setback: Opponents act first or additional encounter (use zone table)
2. Fatigue: Suffer minor harm (1 HP) if engaged in melee
3. Expiration: Expire transient combat conditions (light, burning, etc)
4. Locality: Shift battlefield (or other local change)
5. Percept: Spoor or clue regarding next encounter
6. Advantage: Free combat turn

- Some disasters (1d6): 1 invasion, 2 insurrection, 3 fire, 4 earthquake, 5 flood, 6 falling star
- Some dungeon localities (1d6): 1 obstruction, 2-3 seal/open door, 4-5 divert water, 6 expose secret
- Use common sense: ignore results that do not make fictional sense, but only the first time

- Keep time abstract: quantifying the details precisely is rarely worth the hassle

Moves and Conditions

Moves represent actions relevant to the current fictional context, such as exploring a trackless stretch of swamp. Conditions represent persistence of a transient state, such as adventurer exhaustion. Conditions can apply to areas, parties, or individuals. Strictness tracking conditions is a matter of style. Tokens can help. The lists of moves and conditions below are suggestive rather than complete. Improvise others as appropriate, according to referee ruling.

Haven turns represent several days or weeks of rest and recovery.

- Free haven moves: advance/level up, prepare spells, recover, recruit, resupply
- Full haven moves: craft gear, scribe scroll, conduct research
- Haven conditions: curse, famine, pestilence, shortage, siege, winter

Wilderness turns represent travel and making camp, approximately one day and night. Making a wilderness move requires consuming a ration or taking the exhausted condition in addition to rolling the hazard die. If already exhausted, at the start of a wilderness turn suffer minor harm (1 HP). Determine randomly whether setbacks occur during day or night.

- Free wilderness moves: access known landmark in current area, survey adjacent areas

- Full wilderness moves: travel to adjacent area, search, explore, hunt, track
- Wilderness conditions: exhausted, lost

Lost: Travel is no longer an option. Use search to locate a landmark, removing the lost condition on success.

Dungeon turns represent exploration at architectural scale, approximately tens of minutes or a few hours, assuming careful advance into hostile places.

- Free dungeon moves: look under a rug, open unstuck door, pull lever
- Full dungeon moves: climb, force a door, move to adjacent area, pick a lock, search
- Dungeon conditions: candlelight, torchlight, overburdened Combat turns represent tactical actions occurring over seconds or minutes.
- Free combat moves: shout command, drop held item,
- Full combat moves: shoot, spell, strike, throw, withdraw
- Combat conditions: burning, defended, grappled, prone

Notes and Further Reading

- Consider using a simple slot-based encumbrance system, such as one item per point of strength.
- Locality results work best if you design areas with countdowns or aspects that can shift between states.
- I replace traditional initiative with the combat hazard die.

Rules Summary

ACTIONS

On their turn, a character may move up to 40ft and take up to one action. Actions may include casting a spell, attacking, making a second move, or other reasonable activities. Actions, attacks, and movements take place simultaneously. Whenever turn order is uncertain, the PCs should make a DEX save to see if they go before their enemies.

Retreating from a dangerous situation always requires a successful DEX save, as well as a safe destination to run to.

ABILITIES

(typically between 3 and 18)

- STR: Brawn, prowess, and resistance.
- DEX: Dodging, sneaking, and reflexes.
- WIL: Persuasion, intimidation, and magic.

SAVES

Roll a d20 equal to or under an ability. A 1 is always a success, 20 is always a failure.

HIT PROTECTION

(typically between 1 and 6)
HP indicates a PC's ability to avoid getting hurt. It is lost during combat & recovered after a few moment's rest.

INVENTORY

PCs have 10 inventory slots: four on their body and six in their backpack (which acts as a sleeping bag if emptied). Most items take up a one slot, but smaller items can be bundled. Bulky items take up two slots and are awkward or difficult to carry.

Filling all ten item slots reduces a PC to 0 HP. PCs cannot carry more than their inventory allows, though carts & horses may provide an increase in slots.

DEPRIVATION

Deprived PCs cannot recover HP. If deprived for more than a day, they add a Fatigue to inventory. Fatigue occupies one slot and lasts until they can recover in safety. This effect is cumulative.

HEALING

A moment's rest and a swig of water will restore lost HP, but may leave the party vulnerable. Ability loss requires a week's rest and the aid of a skilled healer.

SPELLBOOKS

Spellbooks contain a single spell and take up one item slot. Anyone can cast a spell by holding a Spellbook in both hands and reading its contents aloud. Casting a spell adds Fatigue to the PC's inventory.

Given time and safety, PCs can enhance a spell without any additional cost. If they are deprived or in danger, a WIL save may be required to avoid terrible consequences.

COMBAT

The attacker rolls their weapon die and subtracts the target's Armor, then deals the remaining total to their opponent's HP.

Before calculating damage to HP, subtract the target's Armor value from the result of damage rolls. Shields and similar armor provides a bonus defense (e.g. +1 Armor), but only while the item is held or worn.

No one can have more than 3 Armor.

Unarmed attacks always do 1d4 damage. If multiple attackers target the same foe, roll all damaged dice and keep the single highest result. If attacking with two weapons at the same time, roll both damage dice and keep the highest.

If an attack is impaired, the damage die is reduced to 1d4, regardless of weapon. If the attack is enhanced, the attacker rolls 1d12. Attacks with the blast quality affect all area targets, rolling separately for each.

All attacks automatically hit, but players still roll a d20 to see if they get a 20 and it is a Critical Hit, allowing the attacker to make an extra action or allowing their attack to be Enhanced.

DAMAGE

If an attack takes a PC's HP exactly to 0, the player rolls on the Scars table.

Damage that reduces a target's HP below 0 decreases their STR by the remainder. They must then make a STR save to avoid critical damage. Failure takes them out of combat, dying if left untreated.

Having STR 0 means death; having DEX 0 is paralysis; having WIL 0 is delirium.

Armor

- Shield (+1 Armor): 10
- Helmet (+1 Armor): 10
- Padded Armor (Gambeson) (+1 Armor): 15
- Studded Leather (Brigandine) (1 Armor, bulky): 20
- Chainmail (2 Armor, bulky): 40
- Plate (3 Armor, bulky): 60

Weapons

- Dagger, Cudgel, Sickle, Staff, etc. (d6 damage): 5
- Spear, Sword, Mace, Axe, Flail, etc. (d8 damage): 10
- Halberd, War Hammer, Long Sword, etc. (d10 damage, bulky): 20
- Sling (d4 damage): 5
- Bow (d6 damage, bulky): 20
- Crossbow (d8 damage, bulky): 30
